Jiro : So, currently working for Sydney Market Corp? For how long?James: I've been working there for just about a year. It's a great company, but unfortunately the position was only temporary, to help them finish a major world-wide marketing campaign, so my position will end in about a month.Jiro : Ah, I see. That answers why you are looking for a new position. So how long have you been working in the Marketing field?James: Well, honestly, I had a few internships while studying in university, a part-time job immediately after I graduated and my current position.Jiro : That's not so bad considering you've only recently graduated. Ah, I see you enjoy designing web pages. How long have you been designing them?James: My favorite hobby. I've been designing web sites since I was 16 or so. I'm really good with the computer, especially graphic design and office applications. I can type over 40 words per minute.Jiro : That's quite impressive.
