

A : Any advice for me as I am about to change jobs?

B : You should () () studying English. No matter what you do, the fact remains that English is the global language today.

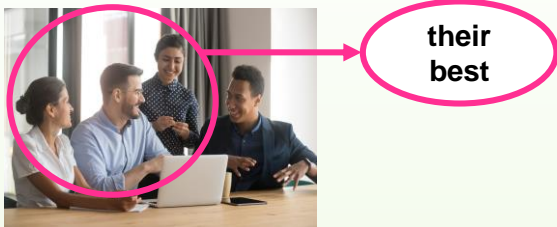

A : Now is the time for all of us to stand up to clean up the corruption in politics!

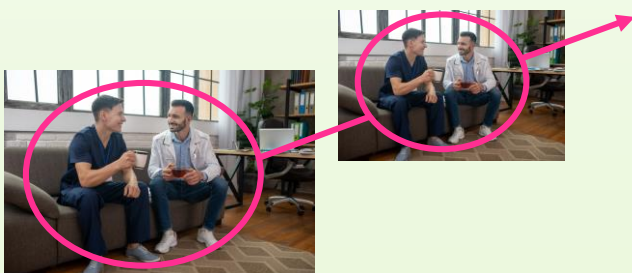

B : I totally agree. So, what should we do to make that happen?
A : First, we need to gather enough votes to () the government () !

A : I'm enjoying my work here! Now I'm just updating my Instagram pages.
B : It's great that you love working here. But I think you'd better not () () things that have nothing to do with your work.

A : Mr. K's leadership is so nice that we feel comfortable following his instructions.
B : I agree 100 percent. Besides, I admire him as our role model because he tries his utmost himself first to () () the best in people all the time.

A : Good talking to you today. Let's do this again some time soon. Having said that, to tell you the truth, I have nothing special to do this afternoon.
B : Oh, really? Me neither. Why don't we () () our conversation?

A : There was a poor homeless person sleeping under the bridge and some random guys just started kicking him. I called the police immediately.

B : That is outrageous! You did the right thing.

A : Yeah, the police () him () to the hospital and arrested those bullies.

A : Yuka seems to like her new job very much. It's her dream job came true, actually!

B : Besides, that new job is said to () () twice the salary she used to earn!

A : I feel something is missing in the salad. I wonder what it might be...

B : Ah-ha! Salt! A little salt will () () the flavor better.

A : Jackson, your sale went up 30% this month. Please () () the good work.

B : I will!

A : Do you know about the miracle of the Hudson River in 2009?

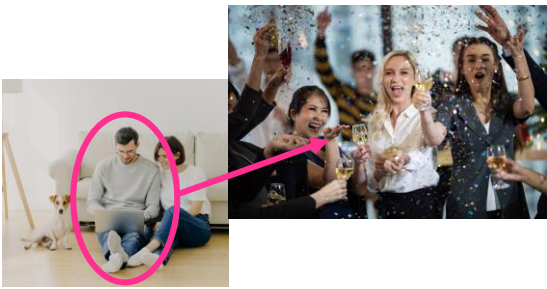

B : Wasn't that a plane crash on that river?

A : Yes, that was how it happened. It wasn't a crash, though. Anyway, it was a miracle that the pilot () the plane () safely on the Hudson River and saved all those on board.

A : The company just () () a new clock-in system. Instead of touching your I.D. card on the card-reader, a scanner will scan your face.

B : Does it mean I can't ask anyone else to clock in for me?

A : We haven't met your fiance yet. Why don't you () him () to the office's Christmas party this year?

B : He is really shy... so I don't know if he would like to come.

A : Why do you support the Progress Party?

B : I like their liberal policies. Their policy on gender equality. They've been () () a campaign for equal rights for women since its foundation.

A : This new computer is capable of the kind of high performance that has never been before.

B : OK. Frankly speaking, if you () () the price a little bit, I will buy one.

A : Was the burglar case solved yet? Did the police arrest the criminal?

B : Not yet. It was reported that the suspect was () () for questioning. But I haven't heard any progress since.

A : I really like Timothy Thompson. His writing style is very exquisite.

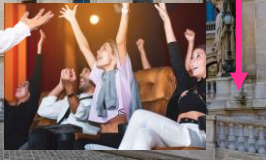

B : He's written so many books up to now, right?

A : Right. And he's going to () () another book on "A.I. lifestyle" next month.

A : So, what did you two talked about?

B : I had no specific topics to talk about, but she just () () about her colleagues for hours.

A : He's a great singer! Paul Potts from England!

B : I've never heard his name. What kind of song does he sing?

A : He's an opera singer. He sang in Britain's Got Talent in 2007. His magnificent voice () () the house, leaving one of the judges in tears.

A : The jury took a considerable amount of time to () () its verdict before the court gave the final sentence.

B : That's because the judge thought that process was more important than with other usual cases.
