

A : I have noticed that all of our documents are encrypted.

B : You should () () the subject at the meeting.

A : That's what I've been doing for some time. Sadly, the committee has been dismissing it as insignificant.

A : Please () () . We've been waiting for you.

B : Thank you so much. I'm so glad to see you again.

A : It's been rainy and cold for some time.

B : That's why it feels so good today with this beautiful weather!

A : You're right. I'm so relieved that the sun has () () at last.

A : Yesterday, something unexpected happened at the movie theater I went to.

B : What was that?

A : I () () my boss there. The theater was so packed that there was no other seat for him than the one right behind me. Eventually, I couldn't focus my attention on the movie at all.

A : So, did she get well after she went home? She was sick when I saw her leaving the office early.

B : I called her up this morning, and she said after she got home, she felt more and more sick and finally she () () all she had eaten.

A : You are dressing warm today, aren't you?

B : Yes, I am, because the weather report said that the cold season is () () , and I do feel colder.

A : So, how are you managing in your new job?

B : Not bad. I can say that things () () better than I'd expected.

A : Could you give me your feedback on my presentation?

B : Allow me to be a little bit straightforward, OK? I think your message didn't () () clearly.

the world standard

A : We need to () the quality of our bath products () to the world standard.

B : But we have improved everything we could. What else can we do?

A : To get a sense of new trends, you just have to look around and observe what items come in and go out.

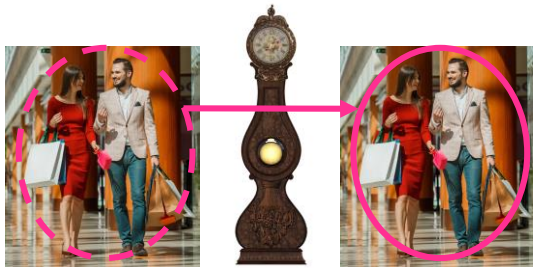

B : Then, what kind of prediction can you make based on such an observation?

A : Well, it would be quite safe to say that long skirts are now () () again.

A : How is the lab report ()
 () ?

B : Well... it's not looking good.
The report () ()
a disaster. It turns out our new medicine has a very strong side effect.

A : So, what did you get at the auction?

B : We () () a 17th century clock at the auction, and we won that.

A : Yuichi's English is so good!

B : That's not surprising at all. He was () () in California.

A : I'm thinking about learning Mandarin Chinese.

B : But you are learning English and now
 Chinese too? Wouldn't it be a lot?

A : I just feel like it will ()
 () handy one day.
 I don't mind taking it slow.

A : Oh my goodness! I spilled the coffee on the wall!

B : Be quick! Or the stain might set.
If you scrub hard enough, the stain
might () () .

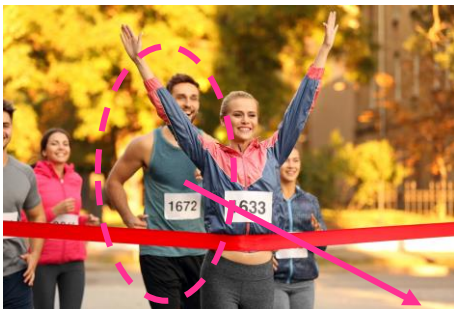

A : Is anything wrong? You look so absent-minded suddenly.

B : Oh, sorry about that. That's nothing.
Just an idea () ()
my mind.

A : Seriously, why would you () it () in front of the clients
that we were having money problems?

B : We are sorry. We should have given it a thought.

A : I was amazed to hear that Hiro () () second in the half marathon.

B : It's really amazing that he actually did it! I definitely can't do that.

A : So, you've been working on a new book for some time. When is the book () () ?

B : This coming April. That's our plan.

A : So, what do you think about the new comer?

B : You mean Sabrina? She ()
() as a little arrogant to me.

A : Tell me about it. Just because she graduated from Harvard doesn't mean she is better than everyone else.

Why would you () it () in front of the clients that we were having money problems?

The weather report said that the cold season is () () , and I do feel colder.

I can say that things () () better than I'd expected.

We () () a 17th century clock at the auction, and we won that.

We need to () the quality of our bath products () to the world standard.

You () () late.

The report () ()
a disaster.

No one () () this line.

You should () ()
the subject at the meeting.

Please () () .
We've been waiting for you.

You have blood () ()
of your nose.

I () () my boss
yesterday at the movie theater.

Yuichi was () ()
in California.

Well, it would be quite safe to say that long skirts are now () () again.

If you scrub hard enough, the stain
might () () .

Sabrina () () as a little arrogant to me.

She felt more and more sick and finally she () () all she had eaten.

I was amazed to hear that Hiro () () second
in the half marathon.

I'm so relieved that the sun has () () at last.

I think your message didn't () () clearly.

() the best player ()
on stage.

I just feel like Mandarin Chinese will () () handy one day.

You've been working on a new book
for some time.
When is the book () () ?

Just an idea () ()
my mind.